EC2

"There are two kinds of people I don't trust: people who don't drink and people who collect stickers."

The East India Company (EIC), also known as the Honourable East India Company and informally as John Company was an English and later British joint-stock company, formed to pursue trade with the East Indies, but which ended up trading mainly with the Indian subcontinent and Qing China. Originally chartered as the "Governor and Company of Merchants of London trading into the East Indies", the company rose to account for half of the world's trade, particularly trade in basic commodities that included cotton, silk, indigo dye, salt, saltpetre, tea and opium. The company also ruled the beginnings of the British Empire in India.

Cocktails!

"The important thing is the rhythm. Always have rhythm in your shaking. Now a Manhattan you always shake to fox-trot time, a Bronx to two-step time, a dry martini you always shake to waltz time." – William Powell, the Thin Man.

OLD
BENGAL
BAR
EC2

People have been mixing drinks for centuries, but it wasn't until the late 17th century that the precursors of the cocktail became popular enough to be recorded in the history books. Although no one quite knows when, who, where or what contributed to the creation of the original cocktail, it seems to have started as a specific drink, rather than how we have come to know it as a category of drinks.

Here at the Old Bengal Bar we believe that every good evening starts with a good cocktail, and although today there is no end to the ever growing lists of spirits and cocktails being created and evolved worldwide, we are proud of our menu!

So whether it's a classic, or one of our own creations, we hope you enjoy.

OLD BENGAL BAR EC2

Signatures

Salt, aniseed, white pepper, cardamom, cumin, cinnamon, cloves, opium and tea – that's just a small list of spices which were stored in this protected by government building more than 2 centuries ago. This nice history inspired us to create our signature cocktails influenced by all spices, which were brought to England by East India Company in XVIII century.
